Ascension Leadership Academy

Ascension Leadership Academy was established, as a component of Hope Academy, in the spring of 2016. Ascension Leadership Academy was the name given to the educational program for grades K-8 of Hope Academy, the AdvancED accredited school in Presbyterian Home for Children Educational System. The original purpose for adding the Ascension Leadership name to the K-8 educational program was to promote leadership, responsibility, and community involvement into the accredited academic program of Hope Academy. Since many of the students entering the 2018-2019 academic year will have participated in this leadership approach to the academic program, the Board of Trustees voted in May of 2018 to replace the name of Hope Academy and unify all grades in the leadership component of the educational program and have all grades under one name. Ascension Leadership Academy will be the name for all grades beginning with the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year. There have been no changes to the AdvancED accredited academic program except the addition of activities to promote leadership, responsibility and community involvement. Ascension Leadership Academy and Ascension Leadership Academy's Virtual School are governed by the Presbyterian Home for Children's Board of Trustees. Ascension Leadership Academy's facility is provided through a partnership with the First Presbyterian Church of Talladega. The Director of Education oversees all school services in the Presbyterian Home Educational System. Since all components of Hope Academy's accredited educational were maintained and only components to further strengthen the academic program were added, the name change will not change the accredited status for Ascension Leadership Academy and all programs within the Presbyterian Home for Children Educational System are AdvancED Accredited through the year 2020. Our purpose is to recognize the potential of each student and to convince each student that the only limiting factor to their achievement is their willingness and dedication to excel.

Major advantages for students attending Ascension Leadership Academy include:

- ◆ small class size
- ◆ personalized attention allows students and teacher to perform as a team
- ◆ exposure to a learning environment based on a high standard of excellence
- ◆ instructors with a high expectation for academic achievement
- ◆ close communication between parent, instructor, and child regarding all aspects of the child's development and education
- ◆ opportunities for development of leadership skills

Additional Educational Information

History: The Presbyterian Home for Children Educational System opened its first school in 1997 to serve the residents of the Presbyterian Home for Children, a Christian caring community for children and families. Their first school, Hope Academy, received its accredited status in December of 2005 through the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. That accreditation has continued under the accrediting authority of AdvancED. Children and their families receive services regardless of race, color, creed, gender, national origin, religious affiliation, or disability. Qualified teachers provide instruction utilizing curriculum aligned with Alabama Course of Study requirements and the Alabama Department of Education's Plan 2020.

The Presbyterian Home for Children Educational System's graduates have demonstrated their educational interest and success through their acceptance to post-secondary schools and their pursuit of post-secondary degrees. Our graduates attend the University of Alabama, University of Alabama in Birmingham, Auburn University, Jacksonville State University, the University of Montevallo, Central Alabama Community College, Gadsden State Community College and various post-secondary technical schools. Upon successful completion of their college or technical school programs, students desiring to further their academic studies, have been accepted to and completed graduate degree programs.

Pre-admission requirements: Before being admitted to Ascension Leadership Academy, each student will be reviewed in the areas of aptitude achievement, and discipline. The review is designed to determine exactly where the student ranks in the many different areas of learning and will provide valuable information in the development of a customized instructional approach that will be utilized. Payment of a $100.00 non-refundable application fee per child will be required prior to pre-admission review. Student tuition is $4,000.00 for the 2018-2019 academic year, or payable in ten monthly installments of $400.00. Tuition payments begin in August and continue through May. Discounts are available for multiple-child families.
