For more than 150 years, children and youth have come to the Presbyterian Home for Children for healing and hope.

Some of the children at the Home have been removed from homes for abuse or neglect. Others have found themselves in need of a safe place to live.

In spite of these difficult beginnings, most of the children in our care go on to graduate from high school and pursue some form of higher education. They break the cycle of poverty and abuse and become fully functioning members of their communities.

“We provide a place for these children to be at rest, to play, to grow, be kids, and learn. We have a fully accredited school to catch them up and programs that change lives,” says PHFC President Doug Marshall.

The programs rely on donor support. You can make gifts online at www.phfc.org or by mail to the address below.
